

Advanced Presentation Skills for Managers and Supervisors

Available In:

- English
- Spanish
- Videoconferencing

Upgrade Your Presentation Skills!

The Covid-19 lockdown has necessitated that all supervisory personnel present more formal discourses including reports of daily activities, updated policies, and training materials. Whether you're explaining to a new employee how to operate the copy machine, observing OSHA safety rules, or addressing a room full of sales executives, you want to give the best presentation you can to make sure that what you have to say is well received, fully understood, and properly implemented. The material in this program has been expressly developed to help you achieve those goals whether you're new to the world of presenting or an old hand looking for updated material or just a refresher on the foundational information.

What trainees will learn:

- How to precisely define your audience's needs, understanding, and expectations
- How to prepare the best presentation materials for each audience and topic
- How to prepare for the presentation
- How to make sure your materials are what the audience needs
- How to use the current technology and support materials for presentations.
- The adult learning model
- How to "sell" your program
- Includes a special section for effectively presenting in an online environment like Zoom®

How this training will benefit your company and employees:

Benefits of this training include:

- Avoiding misunderstandings
- More effective decision-making
- Positive cost impact
- Better problem solving
- Better teamwork
- Increase retention of important materials

This training can be conducted for 8 hours or more. Onsite training may be customized to meet your business needs.

ABOUT MIKE ROUNDS

Mike Rounds is an OSHA and Cal/OSHA authorized trainer with over 35 years of experience as a professional speaker.

His trainings are consistently rated among the highest in the business and deliver more usable content than any in the industry.

His programs are both informative and entertaining and he is billed internationally as "The Man Who Translates Technology into Human Terms."