

Supply Chain Management

Languages Offered:

- English
 Spanish

Key Component of Every Successful Organization

Supply Chain Management seems pretty self-explanatory, especially for those individuals that work within a company like Logistics or Manufacturing, however, often times employees and even young leaders are employed and brought up through the ranks learning a specific role or element within the field and assume they are knowledgeable of how the Supply Chain Process works and the importance of it, only to realize they do not as they progress into Management and even Senior Leadership Roles

What trainees will learn:

- Discuss and Learn what is Supply Chain
- Discuss and Learn who depends on a Supply Chain
- Discuss and Learn what are the Key Elements that Make a Supply Chain Function
 - Internal and External Elements
- Discuss and Learn how the Supply Chain is setup for Logistics and Manufacturing Operations
- Discuss and Learn an awareness of and Methods for Managing / Controlling the Supply Chain through software and peripheral hardware.
- Discuss and Learn what Management is, and what must be managed for a successful Supply Chain Operation

How this training will benefit your company and employees:

In General, our region employes thousands of workers in the Logistic, Manufacturing, Retail, and Small Business Industries. Each has its unique need for and use of a Supply Chain process, however, due to the immediate needs of the Organization and Mission, often do not spend much time on mapping out the actual Supply Chain process or conducting any type of Employee training on it, Hence, the process may be incomplete, or may not even function properly, with only a select few understanding what might be wrong. Since the Process may have errors in it, and so few employees are knowledgeable of how the system should be set up and work, the opportunity for more employees to self-correct an aspect of it, or even report it to upper management, the supply chain becomes a negative aspect of the organization.

This training can be conducted for 8 hours. Onsite training may be customized to meet your business needs.

ABOUT MARK HEDGES

Mr. Hedges has an extensive Military Construction/Operations and Civilian Business background and is an expert in: Leadership Skills, Business Strategies, Organizational Development, Coaching & Mentoring, Managing High Performance Operations, Team Building, Goal Setting, Communication Skills, Workforce Leadership and Basic Skills, in Construction, Logistics, Retail, Manufacturing, and Small Business.