CLASSROOM INCIDENTS:

1. Disruptive behavior in the classroom should not be tolerated. The instructor is responsible for maintaining a safe and comfortable learning environment for all students. If a student is disruptive, the instructor should immediately address the behavior by:
 - a. Providing the student with an oral and/or written statement that s/he has violated college policy, disrupted the educational process, or violated classroom norms.
 - b. Indicating to the student verbally or in writing that continued disruptive behavior will result in further documentation including possible dismissal from class.
2. An instructor may temporarily remove a student from class for up to 2 class sessions (the current and next regular class) for the following reasons: disruptive behavior, willful disobedience; habitual profanity/vulgarity; open and persisted defiance of authority; persistent abuse of college personnel, threat of force of violence. The instructor should:
 - a. Direct the student to see the Dean of Student Services and Student Development before returning, and notify the Dean of Student Services and Student Development by phone within two hours after the end of the class, and by email/writing within 24 hours of the temporary removal of the student from class.
 - b. Provide the Dean of Student Services and Student Development with documentation regarding the student's behavior, including written and verbal warnings, policies violated and any previous actions taken.
3. In cases that involve threat or violence, College Police should be notified immediately. At the earliest opportunity, an incident report should be submitted to the Dean of Student Services and Student Development.

INCIDENTS OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM:

1. Direct the student to stop the behavior.
2. If the situation appears dangerous, immediately contact College Police at (909) 389-3275.
3. Complete the Incident Report Form, providing the student's name (if you know it) or a physical description and send it to the Dean of Student Services and Student Development.
4. If a pattern of disruptive behavior by the student is documented by various departments, the Dean of Student Services and Student Development will follow up with the student and disciplinary action may be taken.
